Summer Program At Historical Park

tendent Bob Madden, mean that the Visitor Center, McLean House and Country Store will remain open until 6 p.m. throughout the summer. The increased visitor services include scheduled guided tours seven days a week and the beginning of the Park's "Living Village" program.

The "Living Village" program is an attempt to recreate a few of the people, real and fictitious, who participated in or observed the events that occurred at Appomattox in April of 1865. One of these recreated, fictitious individuals is George Morris, a young law clerk,who read law with John W. Woodson and took over the law office when Mr. Woodson died in 1865.George kept home by his studies and business, did not go to war. He did, however, suffer from shortages, and other privations caused by the war, as well as from having many of his friends killed in battle. George saw the cruelty of war as a civilian and witnessed the final acts of the war at Appomattox.

Today, George shares what he saw and experienced in April of 1865 with the Park visitors. He tells them of seeing Generals Lee and Grant at Wilmer McLean's house and how he watched the laying down of arms at the Surrender Triangle. He recalls his hopes and fears through the four years of war and wonders what is to become of his war-ravaged home.

Woodson's Law Office is located next to the Country Store, and George is generally there every day except Wednesday and Thursday. He encourages any of you folks with 1865 vintage legal problems to pay him a visit - maybe he can help.

This organization of local county teachers under the leadership of Mrs. M. J. Price, former Supervisor of Negro Schools, worked diligently in the 40's and 50's for community improvement. Although they did not accomplish the original objective, their efforts have resulted in the establishment of the Mozella J. Price Scholarship Fund which aids young people to reach their goals in education and thus be able to make a worth while contribution to society.

Both patrons, citizens and former teachers should feel proud of the part they have played in making this project possible. These scholarships are available each year and renewable as long as the student maintains an acceptable average and give evidence that he is making the most of his abilities and opportunities.

Members of the scholarship committee are Rev. R. Q. Lawing, Chairman, Mrs. Harriett P. James, Misses Hester Stevens, and Elizabeth H. Jordan.
